TALK OF THE TOWN

New York, New Haven & Hartford will run at the K. of P. minstrels Nov. 23 and 24.

The best local talent in the entertainment line will appear at the band fair. Every citizen of Barre is expected to attend the band fair and help to make it a big success.

His Wrong Lead.

Some forty years ago at Aldershot the camp was commanded by Sir James Yorke Scarlett, a Crimean veteran. On the occasion in question he was directing some sham fighting. In a manner then usual he was leading a line of skirmishers of one force against another many yards in front, as in earlier times he had led the heavy brigade at Balaklava against three times its numbers. To a soldier of the younger school it seemed a preposterous proceeding, and Sir Evelyn ventured to criticize it.

Sir James replied: "Young man, have I not ordered you twice to hold your tongue? If I like to lead my skirmishers, what the— is that to you?" Sir Evelyn replied, "Ten thousand pardons, sir, but it is the enemy's line in retreat you have been leading for the last ten minutes." He was short-sighted and did not wear glasses, so was unable to see the distinguishing mark, a sprig of heather worn in the shako of the troops he was attacking.—Westminster Gazette.

Counterfeit Detectors.

"Few men carry a bigger roll than the professional detector of counterfeits," said a receiving teller of one of the big banks recently. Each of these counterfeit detectors has a special license from the treasury department at Washington which permits him to carry about 150 samples of counterfeit money. It is a felony to have counterfeit money in your possession without proper authority. For each bogus bill the counterfeit detector carries a genuine note of the same kind and denomination for the purposes of comparison. The total value of this good money that is carried side by side with the bad is between $40,000 and $50,000. The bills run from a dollar up to $1,000 in denomination.—New York Sun.

A Fine Savage Custom.

The untutored mind of the Indian or savage often appears strange to us, but there is sometimes reason in what at first sight seems eccentric. A South African tribe has an effectual method of dealing with bores, which might be adopted by western people. This simple tribe considers long speeches injurious both to the orator and his hearers, so to protect both there is an unwritten law that every public orator must stand on one leg only when he is addressing an audience. As soon as he has to place the other leg on the ground his oration is brought to a close.—London Globe.

Handier to Carry Than a Cork.

The elevator to the department store was nearly full. Raynor, who was one of the passengers, drew a small and withered potato from his trousers pocket. "What do you carry that for?" asked Shyne. "Protection." "Protection from what? Rheumatism?" "No; batpina." By way of illustration he deftly impaled it upon the point of one that was within two inches of his left eye.—Chicago Tribune.

Not For Christening.

A clergyman had been displeased with the quality of milk served him. At length he determined to remonstrate with his milkman for supplying such unworthy stuff. He began mildly. "I've been wanting to see you with regard to the quality of the milk with which you are serving me." "Yes, sir," uneasily answered the tradesman. "I only wanted to say," continued the minister, "that I use the milk for drinking purposes exclusively, and not for christening."—Dundee Advertiser.

Too Emphatic.

Head of the Firm—William, what did Mr. Shoppinger say when you handed him a statement of his account? Bill Collector—Mr. Sokum, if—ah—you'll send the typewriter lady out of the room for about five minutes I'll tell you.—Chicago Tribune.

A party of the following local hunters went this morning to Orange mountain to remain in camp for a week: F. C. Little, Clarence Little, Floyd Little, Edward Bruce, Alex. Milne, Frank Pirio, Frank Allen.

The show at the Pavilion last night pleased the audience immensely, and if a hearty round of applause is pleasing to actors it is certain that all the actors were pleased also. Evans, Hughes and Evans were the big hit of the program, with Joe Daniels a close second. The act presented by Evans, Hughes and Evans differs greatly from the usual vaudeville act seen at the Pavilion. It is a playlet that embraces excellent comedy situations and fine dramatic reading. The scenery of Spartacus, as delivered by Jas. Hughes, is a work of art and shows dramatic training. Mr. Ted Evans as the tough messenger boy and Dopyvins, the Irish gladiator, is irresistibly funny, and he kept the audience in a constant roar of laughter. All of the pictures were good.
